Reflection on today's Gospel - Matthew 18:15-20

‘Where two or three meet in my name, I shall be there.’

Today's Gospel teaches us how to live in this world: it teaches us the all-importance of the quality of our relationships with each other. It teaches us that only those living in honest loving relationships are living in accordance with God's word. It describes the beauty of open, non-judgemental encounters with the person who, you believe, has offended against you, rather than railing against that person behind his or her back. The Gospel is about the efficacy of conflict resolution over vilification.

Belief in love and trust and forgiveness must be at the heart of open encounters with each other; they should never be used falsely as an opportunity for an excoriating, full-frontal attack on another.

Today's Gospel ends with the beautiful promise by Jesus that he is always present where two or three are gathered together in his name, in other words, in the name of love and trust and forgiveness.

Thanks be to God.

Face Coverings: At this time, both in Northern Ireland and in the Republic of Ireland, the governments have not made mandatory the wearing of face coverings at services of worship.

However, following recent consultations with public health authorities, the leaders of the four main churches in Ireland decided to recommend and encourage the use of face coverings at Masses and other liturgical celebrations.

Some people are exempt from the wearing of face coverings, even in situations which would otherwise be mandatory, as outlined at <https://www.nidirect.gov.uk/articles/coronavirus-covid-19-face-coverings> and <https://www.gov.ie/en/publication/aac74c-guidance-on-safe-use-of-face-coverings>.

Please continue to observe social distancing, to use the hand sanitiser on entering and leaving the Cathedral.
