

Holy Week Reflections

Palm Sunday

Today, the liturgy invites us to contemplate the face of the suffering Lord. Jesus' mission, purpose, goal and glory are revealed in his Passion. We encounter today the pure and perfect witness of God's love. If you are tempted to doubt God's love, look at Christ crucified. Here the mystery of God's love is revealed. Jesus would have died on the cross if there was only one of us to die for. Only his death, his sacrifice, his laying down of his life for us, could reconcile us with the Father, open heaven to us and secure for us life eternal, which was lost through the fall of Adam.

Monday

All four Evangelists record an account of a woman anointing Jesus. The version found in Luke 7:36-50 stands on its own, offering us the same message but set against a slightly different backdrop (and including Simon the Pharisee's reaction). What all four accounts have in common is that they reveal an incident which captures so beautifully, so powerfully and so movingly a love for Jesus which is difficult to find words to describe. You see, what the Christian life is all about is actually very simple and straightforward. Mary witnessed to love. Her 'waste' of nard and her profound willingness to humble herself and wash the Lord's feet were an expression of her deep, unashamed and uncompromising love for her Saviour.

Tuesday

Judas was one of the twelve apostles. We can sometimes lose sight of this fact. Jesus chose him to be a member of the most dynamic group of men the world has ever known. We are not given the details of how Judas became a follower of Christ, as we are with some of the other apostles. We can be certain, however, that the Lord chose him because he saw in him the necessary qualities. What happened to change him can really only be the subject of conjecture. We just don't know what was going on in his heart to betray the Lord as he did.

Wednesday

The clear indication of scripture is that Judas was motivated by greed and avarice and completely misunderstood Jesus and his mission. What was really going on in his mind we cannot really know. What we do know is that Jesus would have forgiven him. Jesus taught forgiveness and love of one's enemy.

Holy Thursday

Jesus' disciples are offended, even scandalized, by the humility of this gesture of washing their feet. Peter protests strongly, keen to prevent his Lord and Master adopting such a humble and lowly position. Peter was not showing false humility: he was genuinely shocked, horrified even, that Jesus should adopt the position of a slave. Jesus washed his disciples' feet because he wanted to set them an example. In the same way that he had humbled himself and washed their feet, so they should humble themselves and wash one another's feet.

Good Friday

Today a special grace flows through the Church. Today the mystery of the cross shines out. Today, the cross, not the Eucharist, is the highpoint, the focus of our celebration. Our thoughts and prayers are focused on the cross. We adore, worship and venerate the cross by which the world was saved. We will go forward today to venerate the cross. In this gesture we show our love and our dependence on Christ. For Jesus, his glory was his cross. For him his death was not defeat but victory; death was not the end but the beginning.

Holy Saturday

We invite you, today, on this most holy and sacred of days, to ponder the rich wisdom offered to us in this ancient homily for Holy Saturday. The early believers had a profound grasp of the drama of our salvation played out before them in the liturgy. 'O Christ, you slept a life-giving sleep in the grave, and didst awaken humankind from the heavy sleep of sin. All-powerful and ever-living God, your only Son went down among the dead and rose again in glory. In your goodness raise up your faithful people buried with him in baptism, to be one with him in the eternal life of heaven'.

Funeral Masses are not celebrated on Holy Thursday, Good Friday or Holy Saturday.

Celebration of Holy Week and Easter

*Loving God,
we are the body of your Son in the world today.
As we begin our journey to Calvary give us
the courage to carry our crosses.
Help us to know that when we suffer
we share in the suffering of Christ.
Give us the faith to believe that with Christ our crosses never end in death
but in the resurrection.
As we await Easter Day fill our hearts with joy.
We make this prayer through Jesus Christ who is our crucified and risen Saviour
for ever and ever.
Amen.*

The Easter Vigil: In the words of St Augustine 'this is the mother of all vigils'. The Easter Triduum reaches its high point on this most holy night. On this night we tell our story, it is our family story. It is not just a distant memory, it is not only historical fact - it is living reality. It is the story of salvation. We are a saved people. Through his cross and resurrection Christ has set us free. We symbolise our salvation and freedom through the use of the fire and the single flame of the paschal candle. We have been called out of darkness into the wonderful light of Christ. All the readings at the Vigil reveal to us that we are God's chosen people. The blessing of the Easter water and the renewal of our baptismal promises all express the fact that we belong to Christ and so are a resurrected people.

Reflection on today's Gospel

The Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ according to Luke

22:14-23:56

Today's Gospel calls on us to journey with Jesus to Calvary: it calls on us to walk alongside him on his long, excruciating journey through rejection, betrayal, profound agony and death. Today's Gospel calls on us to witness the Son of God's acceptance of the full forces of evil for our salvation. We are called on to witness with humility and awe the most powerful act of love the world has ever known or ever will know. Jesus could have called on his divinity to save him if he so wished, but chose instead for our sake to suffer as a human being and in doing so entered into solidarity with every other human being who suffers, with every other human being who is afraid, or who feels abandoned, or who is lost. We are called on to witness Jesus living fully right up to his last breath as he offers forgiveness to those who have so cruelly used him.

Jesus, we are witnessing in today's world the evils of a bloodthirsty lust for power and control over others. We know that you hear the cries of all those who are in anguish and are afraid. Grant us the courage to stand in solidarity with all those who are suffering and fearful.

Jesus, you were enabled by your faith in your heavenly Father to triumph over the forces of evil and death. Grant that we will always know that with that same faith, life will always triumph over all forms of death.

Jesus, may we call out to you when we are afraid and know that you are walking beside us always, our hand in yours.
