

A Short Reflection on today's Gospel Luke 23:35-43

Today's heartbreakingly beautiful Gospel witnesses Jesus, our Saviour, dying as he had lived: loving, forgiving; humbly accepting his agony, silent in the face of the cruel jibes and jeers spat on him by his enemies, refusing to put God to the test in order to satisfy their disbelief. I believe that life is being lived at its fullest, its most intense, when human beings reach out to each other in forgiveness, when they refuse to contaminate their souls with hatred and choose love instead. Jesus was only moments from death, and he was still reaching out to others in forgiveness. He was only moments from death and, gloriously, he was living life at its fullest! He had spent his time on earth teaching and living out the truth of the unconditional love and boundless mercy of God. Now he was dying bathed in the light of that truth. The good thief recognised this when he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom," for which he was rewarded with Jesus' beautiful promise, "Amen, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise."

Today's Gospel begs the questions, how do I live my life? Will I be borne up at my death by having lived my life centred on the teachings of Jesus? Have I ranted and raved at life's vicissitudes, or have I leant into suffering as Jesus did. Have I seen my sufferings as redemptive and borne them with unshakeable faith in the unconditional love and boundless mercy of our Heavenly Father? Or has my faith faltered in a sea of confusion and doubt?

Lord Jesus, teach me to live as you lived, in the light of faith and truth, and teach me to die as you died, in the light of that faith and truth.

Thank you - This weekend we celebrate the feast of Christ the King. It is the last weekend in the Church's year. Next weekend we begin the season of Advent and look forward to Christmas. During the Church Year that is coming to an end I had the joy of celebrating my Silver Jubilee of Priesthood. It seems such a short time ago since July when we had the Mass to celebrate. Today I want to thank all of you who were so kind and thoughtful to me for my Jubilee. I want to thank those who came to the Mass, who prayed for me, who gave me gifts and who celebrated the gift of priesthood.

I am very blessed and very grateful for the gift of priesthood. Together as we prepare to enter a new Church Year, I pray that together God will draw us in his footstep and we will run together, praising God, adoring God, serving God and loving God.

Fr Paul
